

ABOUT EPTC

The 25th IEEE Electronics Packaging Technology Conference (EPTC2023) is an international event organized by the IEEE RS/EP/EDS Singapore Chapter and co-sponsored by the IEEE Electronics Packaging Society (EPS). EPTC2023 conference will feature keynotes, technical sessions, technology talks, virtual exhibition corners and networking activities. It aims to provide a platform to cover the technology developments in the complete spectrum of electronics packaging from design to manufacturing. Since its inauguration in 1997, EPTC has been established as a highly reputable international electronics packaging conference and is the IEEE EPS flagship conference in the Asia and Pacific Region 10, covering diverse areas of electronic packaging technology topics. These include modules, components, materials, equipment technology, assembly, reliability, interconnect design, device and systems packaging, heterogeneous integration, wafer-level packaging, flexible electronics, LED, IoT, 5G, emerging technologies, 2.5D/3D integration technology, smart manufacturing, automation, and AI.

The EPTC Technical Program Committee, with more than 100 experts from diverse semiconductor packaging technology areas, is committed to creating an engaging technical program for the international packaging community. The technical program will be supplemented by an exhibition, which provides an opportunity for leading companies to exhibit their latest technologies and products. Last year, 430 attendees from 30 different countries worldwide attended the 24th EPTC conference. This year being our 25th Anniversary, we have a special 4-day program and expect more attendees.

EPTC2023 Organizing Committee would like to invite you to support the sponsorship of this event. A dedicated two-hour sponsors and exhibition session in the Ballroom on Day 2 and Day 3 has been planned, and winners will be picked up through Kahoot game participation for the question submitted by respective sponsors and exhibitors. There is no exhibitor's presentation during the tea break session to enhance exhibitors' and delegates' interaction.
